DEVOTED TO THE BEST INTERESTS OF THE SAN FERNANDO VALLEY

VOL. VI. GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CAL., FRIDAY, APRIL 21, 1911 No. 52

CITY TRUSTEES

All present. The list of demands presented was unusually small. After presentation of demands the board adjourned for thirty minutes, during which time the new fire ordinance was informally discussed. The February and March reports of the city treasurer and tax collector were taken up and considered, the same being held by the finance committee to await the report of the auditor. The board of public works requested additional time to consider the request of J. A. Andrews to install a horsepower motor at Verdugo Road and Third street, same being granted. The marshal was instructed to discontinue the employment of special night watchmen. The fire chief was authorized to have two fire hose hydrants on East Sixth street connected with the new pipe line on that street. The city attorney was instructed to give an opinion as to the legality of taking water from the valley to outside territory. The public works committee was requested to investigate why a uniform and continuous flow of water is not furnished by the water companies, and the clerk was instructed to ascertain if bills of the Consolidated Water Company are still payable at the First National Bank of Glendale. The committee appointed to consult architects on plans and specifications for a city hall building recommended the employment of Paul V. Tuttle. The report was referred to the city attorney. An ordinance fixing the height at which high tension electric wires shall be carried above the ground was taken up and passed third and final reading. President White was granted leave of absence for one month. The clerk was instructed to confer with Postmaster Harrison and ascertain why deliveries in the city have been reduced from two to one. The matter of garbage collection was referred to the police and sanitary committee. Twenty dollars was allowed Night Watchman Everett with which to purchase a bicycle. The trustees were requested to act as a committee on speakers for the May Festival. The invitation was accepted. The city attorney was instructed to prepare an ordinance creating a board of health in conformity with state law.

MAIDS AND MATRONS.

The Easter Monday meeting of the Maids and Matrons at the Country Club was all that had been previously promised. The program presented was a delight to all who were present. Mrs. Mary Tufts read a paper dealing with "The Opportunities and Advantages of the Middle Aged Woman," which was handled in an experienced and pleasant manner. An animated discussion followed by the members.

The musical part of the program was dealt with by Julius Kranz, Miss Emma Williams and Mrs. E. W. Kinney. Julius Kranz accompanied by Miss Williams played three violin selections, a canzonetta by D'Ambrosia, MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose," and a serenade by Drydla.

Mrs. Kinney, a formal pupil of Heinrich, who possesses a very sweet though powerful contralto voice, sang two charming selections, also accompanied by Miss Williams, to one of which Julius Kranz played a violin obligato. The latter part of the afternoon was devoted to high tea which was served by Miss Eleanore and Miss May Richards, Miss Bertha Peterson and Miss Emma Williams.

The hostess to whom the success of the afternoon was due, was Mrs. C. G. Farrow of Doran street, who was ably assisted by Mrs. J. E. Osborne, Mrs. Frank Hester and Mrs. H. G. Thurman and Mrs. Vernon Seifried, both of Denver, Colo.

The dining room was a bower of daisies while the receiving rooms were entirely in California poppies.

Marshal Miller is in receipt of a letter inquiring for Mrs. Jennie Little, supposed to be working as a domestic in this vicinity. She will find an important letter in the General Delivery, Los Angeles postoffice.

SEEN FROM AN AUTO

Burbank—Lankershim—Van Nuys

A party consisting of about a score of real estate men and others were the guests Saturday last of Messrs. Parker and Sternberg on a ride to Lankershim and Van Nuys. The day was perfect, the roads generally in excellent condition, the chauffeurs skillful, and the machines properly responsive. From Brand boulevard to Burbank was a matter of fifteen minutes, the section of the Good Roads system along the San Fernando road being all that the most fastidious of auto drivers could demand, a persistent and perpetual challenge to a fracture of speed limits, notwithstanding the frequent signs of warning which the supervisors have stuck up at intervals. We only had a glimpse of Burbank, but that sufficed to show that the village that was is beginning to emerge from its shell, and giving hopeful promise of rapidly growing into more ambitious proportions. Now that its electric railway is assured, the town will no doubt incorporate and proceed to do things. Turning to the left just short of the high school, the road leads through orchards of walnut, apricot, peach and plum, and by great fields of alfalfa now being cut for the first crop of the season, with here and there a prosperous-appearing farmhouse, consisting in some instances of ambitious structures apparently transplanted from city surroundings. This evidence of prosperity continues all along the route through the valley to Lankershim and far beyond. We passed by this growing town, and just on its edge struck the beginning of the great boulevard that is being constructed by the land company that is handling this immense estate of 47,000 acres. Boulevards laid out by land agents and owners are frequently a delusion and a snare, and often get no further along than the paper stage, but this one is undoubtedly going to be the real thing—in fact, there is much of the real thing about it already. When completed it will consist of a seventy-foot strip for the double tracks of the electric road in the center; on each side of this will be a forty-foot driveway, and on the outside a wide parkway thickly planted with trees and shrubs. Already, although the work was begun since the first of the year, we found one of the driveways completed for about five miles, and the parkway thickly set to choice trees, palms, pines and cedars. The roadway is perfect, and apparently fashioned after the specifications which prevail in the Good Roads system, the base being a thick stratum of broken rock, the surface smoothly asphalted. This boulevard is to run the full length of the great rancho, a distance of fifteen miles. A five-mile run at high speed over this excellent stretch of road work brought us to the new town of Van Nuys. Always considering that the work done in the way of development, roads, buildings, everything, has been accomplished since the beginning of this year, the results are little short of marvelous, and afford a forcible illustration of the rapidity of the age in which we live. The Southern Pacific Company (its Chatsworth-Burbank branch passes through the ranch) has completed a depot building and a warehouse here, both of them commodious and ornamental. The land company has under way a large one-story pressed brick front commercial building for eight stores, and the new bank building is well along in construction. Several high-class residences are being constructed in the town site, and here and there are one looks over the valley he sees fifty or more new buildings recently completed or being built. The visiting party followed the completed portion of the boulevard to its extremity, beyond the town, and then went five or six miles further along its course to one of the ranch barns, beyond which, out towards the mountains, the cement gang was at work putting in curb. We passed the well, which supplies all present demands for water, as the bore is 24 inches in diameter, and its capacity, never having been tested, can only be guessed at, but is likely to be 100 inches. On both sides of the boulevard, as far as we rode, the land which fronts upon it has mostly been sold for from $450 to $500 an acre. Farther back, the prices are not much lower for choice locations. The soil is excellent, a fact attested to by the rank growth of volunteer grain and wild grasses. Returning, a side trip was taken over the Ventura-Los Angeles County road up as far as the Encinas ranch, along the beautiful green hills that run along the western side of the valley, which, with their groups of live oak, form a picture of perfect beauty that does not depend upon distance for enchantment, but will bear closest inspection. Once the visitors stopped to pick the gorgeous poppies that have a deeper color here than any other place that we have noticed and grow in great profusion. Coming back from Encinas, we came through historic and romantic Cahuenga Pass, finding that the road makers had done their work excellently, but in one place the main road was blocked by the construction work of the electric road, which has all the grading work completed and a temporary track laid from the Hollywood side to the summit. The navigation of the rough and steep little hill to the side of the main road at this point tried the skill of the auto skipper, but he managed it successfully. A glimpse of Hollywood showed that it has lost none of its beauty, and the ride homeward over the Good Roads system was a delight.

EMBEZZLEMENT.

A young man named Robert Guym, who has been in the employ of the Russell Grocery Company, was brought before Judge Whomes Tuesday morning, charged with embezzling the sum of $41.80 from his employer. It seems that that amount was given to him by Mr. Russell to be returned to a customer, whose pension check had been cashed. Instead of delivering it, however, Guym yielded to the temptation to "have a time," and went to Los Angeles, where he soon spent all of the money. When found by Marshal Miller Monday night in that city, his pockets were empty. Upon arraignment before the recorder he was held under $1,000 bonds to have a hearing on Thursday at 2 o'clock. The marshal is beginning to make a record as a successful finder of lawbreakers, as it was only ten days ago that he brought in Carroll, the forger, who had kept hidden for several weeks.

TAXES DELINQUENT MONDAY NEXT.

Property owners are reminded that the second installment due on county taxes becomes delinquent on Monday next, April 24, which is the last day on which to make payment and avoid penalty. Fifteen per cent will be added to all bills unpaid after that date, with a further cost of the expense of sale later. W. O. Welch is county tax collector; office, corner of Franklin and Spring streets, Los Angeles. Taxpayers having their bills can mail them, accompanied by check, in registered letter, and the receipted bill will be returned in due time.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED.

Mrs. Charles E. Shattuck entertained Tuesday evening at her home on Central avenue in honor of Mr. Shattuck's birthday anniversary.

The house was beautifully decorated with a profusion of ferns and roses and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by those present playing bridge whist. Mrs. Mary H. Gridley won first ladies' prize and Mr. C. O. Pulliam took first gentleman's prize. Several out of town guests were present.

GLENDALE VALLEY IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

Regular meeting next Tuesday evening at K. of P. Hall, Brand boulevard. An attractive program will be furnished as usual, and everybody is invited to attend.

AMONG OUR ADVERTISERS

From the Reporter's Note-book

Mr. McGee, the dry goods man, reports business good. He has just added a line of ladies' kid gloves in response to the demand for that article. In the way of men's shirts he has put in a stock of the Cluett Pea body goods with narrow collars.

Mr. H. P. Coker of the Valley Supply Company has added to the equipment of his feed and fuel establishment a ton-and-a-half delivery auto, a Randolph machine, costing $2000. The business of this establishment has almost doubled within the past year and still keeps growing.

BOOK STORE ENLARGED.

Mr. C. H. Bott, of the Glendale Book Store, has greatly enlarged his store by occupying the portion heretofore occupied by Mr. Guernsey, the jeweler, and now has the entire front for a display of his attractive wares. Mr. Bott is making a specialty of cameras and camera work. He has a large collection of local photographs, the views being taken and developed by himself. His new window display consists of specimens of his camera work, many interesting and artistic local views being exhibited.

GUERNSEY JEWELRY COMPANY MOVES.

The oft repeated query, "Who is Guernsey?" is at last answered. The Guernsey Jewelry Company moved last Saturday into its new quarters in the Peckham block, 604 West Fourth street, and, in honor of the event, welcomed its friends and patrons in the new store rooms and presented free tickets to all adult visitors, giving admission to the Glendale theater. Mr. Guernsey occupies the east half of the building. He has added a manufacturing department to his store, where jewelry will be made and the new parts required in repairing will be turned out. A large addition has been made to the stock of the concern, consisting of clocks, watches and jewelry.

"Yes, the rush of the planting season is pretty well over," said Mr. T. W. Watson, of the Glendale Nursery, as he weighed out some grass seed for a lawn, "but we still keep fairly busy. From this time on we shall expect to handle only ornamental stuff, with a few citrus trees here and there. The season has been a very good one. We have not sold many large lots of fruit trees, as there are not many orchards being planted. The buying is mostly being done by the people who want a few trees on a city lot, and it is surprising how much some of them crowd on to such a small piece of ground. They study the catalogues and pick out one or two of such standard sorts as peach, pear, apple, plum and apricot. Then they want about one each of orange, lemon and grape fruit. It is surprising how many calls there are for grape fruit trees; so many people have a notion that they want one in their back yard. We keep a good assortment on hand, but of course we can't have in stock everything named in the catalogue, and every now and then somebody comes in and asks for something we never heard of. We aim to get it for them, however, if it is obtainable." Just then a woman came in with a list of things that the catalogue told her she ought to have, and the reporter passed on.

CLUB NOTES.

Mrs. Mary H. Gridley of Brand boulevard, attended the meeting of the officers of the State Federation of Clubs which was held in Long Beach. Plans were discussed and made for the convention of Federated Clubs which will be held there from the eleventh to the sixteenth of May. The Glendale Tuesday Afternoon Club will be represented at the convention by the president, two delegates, two alternates and the chairmen of the different club sections.

The Friday Morning Club is again going to present the "Pottery Pageant" and the playlet "Smithereens," which were recently given, this time for the benefit of the model cottages of the poor in Los Angeles. The previous program has been greatly expanded and will be presented in the Temple Auditorium Thursday afternoon. A number of Glendale ladies will hold prominent parts.

BORROWED AN AUTOMOBILE.

About 12:30 Sunday afternoon, Marshal Miller found a Baker Electric automobile standing deserted on Fourth street near the schoolhouse. He had it taken to the garage, and telephoned to the detective headquarters in Los Angeles. There he learned that it had been taken from in front of a church during services that morning, at Hollywood, and word was soon carried to the owner, who later came over and secured the machine. No trace of the thief has been obtained.

Mrs. E. A. Byam arrived Tuesday from the East to spend the summer with her daughter, Mrs. A. F. Stoffel, on Louise street.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

In the oratorical contest, Dwight Stephenson, of the eSnior class, won first place. His subject was on "Prison Reform." Other Seniors contesting were Emily Ellias on "A Plea for the Rising Generation," Alexander Badger on "Ten Wonderful Years," Granville McClure with "A Plea for Better Health." In the Junior class, Harold Story won first, his subject being "Peace Be With You." Others were Marie Schwarze on "A Girl's Duty to Her Country;" Tirzah Snell, "A Plea for the Jews;" Ruth Pierce, "Immigration, Past and Present," and Marie Kirk, on "Our Indians."

Alma Turner took first place in the Sophomore class with the subject "Immigration." Blanche Lyans, on "America's Opportunity," and Elizabeth Byrket on "Justice for the Indian," and Ida Wright on "Our Flag," also were competitors.

In the Freshman class, Jennie Boring was victorious, her subject being the "Perils of Woman's Suffrage." Others were Blythe Monroe on "Abraham Lincoln" and Hazel Royce on "School Spirit."

The first contest between these four winners will be held on April 20.

William Livingstone, of Cincinnati, entered the High School April 17.

Mrs. Gibson, who has charge of the music department, has been quite ill, but is now recovering.

The work of the art students deserves special commendation. It is undeniably worth inspection.

The Seniors distinguished themselves with two social events during Easter week, a picnic and a party.

The Freshmen report an unusually good time for their party.

The Junior class also entertained at the home of Miss Doris Stine on Glendale avenue. Many of the forms of amusement indulged in are not for the public ear, but the one they condescend to tell leads one to suspect the nature of the others. Very serious and dignified was the formal colored wedding, Reverend Rastus Everet officiating. Those witnessing the ceremony declare it very awe-inspiring and formal. The bride's costume was an imported model gown from Paris.

Miss Moore spent her vacation in San Francisco, Miss Field in San Diego, staying over Monday to visit the High School there, and Miss Warner, Miss Knepper and Miss Brownell of Burbank took a walking trip.

Western Jubilee Singers tonight under the auspices of the Junior class. Be sure and come. A good time promised.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY ENTERTAINED.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church was entertained at the beautiful and hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. David Black on Kenneth Road last Tuesday afternoon and evening, the date of their monthly meeting. There was a good attendance of ladies in the afternoon and in the evening the gentlemen arrived and a delightful social time was had. The house and spacious grounds were lighted up in the evening, luncheon was served and the numerous guests were made to feel thoroughly at home. About sixty were present.

P. E. O.

The regular meeting of Chapter L will be held at the nome of Mrs. Berenice Williams, Cedar street, Monday, April 24th, at 2:30. The members are much rejoiced that their president, Mrs. Edith Hunchberger, has so far improved that she will be able to return to her home the last of this week.

Dr. Will McGuire has as guests his sister, Mrs. Belle McGuire and niece, Mrs. Florence Black of Sacramento.

CHURCH AID SOCIAL.

On Friday evening, April 28th a church Aid social will be held at the home of M. P. Harrison, 245 Kenwood street. These socials are given under the auspices of the Presbyterian church and a very cordial invitation is extended to all members of the church and congregation, and their friends, to be present.

LIBRARY NOTES.

An International Encyclopedia will soon be placed on the library shelves.

A plaster of paris cast of the head of Lincoln has been made for and presented to the library by Mr. Ralph Wolfe.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The church was crowded last Sabbath for the Easter service. The music was of a very high order, and was rendered by the choir in excellent taste. The second anthem was an original work by Miss Harris of this church and very suitably fitted the noble words of St. Paul found in Thes. 4:13 and 14.

The pastor of this church was called upon to preside at the installation of the Rev. Cyrus B. Hatch over the Tropico Presbyterian church the evening of Thursday.

The usual services will be held next Sabbath and the pastor will be in the pulpit at both morning and evening services.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will preach on the subject of Providence. In the evening the series of sermons on "The Lost Trail" will be continued, the subject being "The Right Trail."

The Sunday school is growing. Last Sunday it had the largest attendance in its history. It meets at 9:45 a. m. and extends a hearty welcome.

The mid-week meeting for prayer and praise and Christian fellowship is held on Wednesday evening at 7:30. This is the meeting at which one can get acquainted.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

The pastor will preach Sunday morning; Evangelist Lovejoy in the evening.

There will be special services in this church every night except Saturday night for the next two weeks.

Evangelist Lovejoy is of New England stock and springs from the same family as Elijah Lovejoh of Alton, Ill., the first martyr to slavery. His parents responded to the call to help make Kansas a free state, coming in 1855, and in September of the same year, the subject of this sketch was born. He is a graduate of Baker university, class of 1878. In 1880 he joined the South Kansas conference. The following year he entered Boston university theological seminary, from which he graduated three years later. He has served notable pastorates. During his pastorate at Everett, Wash., he built the largest church and increased the membership from 150 to 600. In the Puget Sound conference at Central church, Stockton, Cal., he served one of the largest churches in the state. In 1907 at the request of the California conference he was appointed evangelist by Bishop Neely. He has held special evangelistic services from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He is free from all clap-trap methods and all finicism and fanaticism. He is an up-to-date "old-fashioned" Methodist preacher and worker. In spirit he is a captivating St. John. Come and hear him. He will do you good and only good. Services during the week promptly at 7:45 p. m.

ARRIVALS AT WOODS HOTEL.

Among late arrivals are the following: Grover Mitchell, Taft, Cal.; E. L. Chappel, Brogarth; L. J. Burge, Union, N. Y.; Fred Brin, Worcester, Mass.; Melia Bryant; H. Moore, Redlands.

Monrovia, the "Gem City" of the foothills, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of its birth on Monday last. The day was observed by a general closing of all business establishments and an interesting program.

Miss Marie McDonald entertained a number of friends informally Thursday evening.

GLENDALE, CAL., APRIL 21, 1911

No, Tropico, "Gem City" will not do; Monrovia got there first. We will let you call it "Jewel City," but spell it with a "G."

The Hollywood Citizen has again changed ownership, Mr. E. E. Brown having sold out to George W. Palmer & Son, to whom we extend fraternal greeting with wishes for success.

These are strenuous times for the people who live in the towns on the international boundary between here and Mexico. The citizens of Douglas have been compelled to run all the risks of battle without any chance to share in its glories(?). The situation is an embarrassing one for President Taft who is doing everything in his power to protect Americans, and it is noticeable that criticism of his handling the situation has been nearly silenced by the events of the past week.

That blood-stained bandit, Chris Evans, who, with his son-in-law, Sontag, terrorized the people in the neighborhood of Visalia some twenty years ago, and, after being pretty well shot to pieces by officers, was captured and sentenced to the penitentiary for life, has been turned loose by the Governor's pardon. Age has doubtless toned down his outlaw spirit so that he will not repeat his former exploits, but we doubt if it is not a case where the quality of mercy is somewhat strained.

In England it is reported that the drink bill of 1910, compared with that of 1900, has been reduced by $232,500,000. English people drink 17½ per cent less of beer, 42 per cent less of spirits, and 26 per cent less of wine. This change seems to have been brought about not by law, but by the increase of a tendency towards moderation and the idea that physical health is not increased or maintained by the drinking of alcohol. When young men refuse to drink at bars, the saloon will have to go. There can be no stable reform that does not rest upon the power of the individual to resist temptation.—Christian Register.

Hon. Charles H. Randall, of Highland Park, whose reapportionment bill brought down upon its author's devoted head the whole weight of displeasure the San Francisco delegation in the legislature was capable of expressing, expresses his belief that his measure will be adopted by the special session which is pretty sure to be called some time next fall. That San Francisco opposed the measure creates the suspicion that it must be a pretty fair one. Mr. Randall's plan provides for a representative for every county in the state, although several of them have less than the population required on a basis of a minimum of something like 30,000. He claims that this is in accordance with constitutional requirements. This the representatives of the Bay City object to, insisting that the reapportionment be on the basis of purely mathematical averages, but the Randall bill favors the country as against the claims of the metropolis. The Welch bill, favored by the San Francisco people, gave to the three largest cities of the state one-half of the total representation.

A WATER QUESTION.

The Glendale city trustees at their meeting Tuesday evening instructed the city attorney to prepare an opinion on the legality of the act of taking water which is appurtenant to this portion of the Rancho San Rafael, to supply outside territory. This action is no doubt aimed at the Consolidated Water Company which has distributed water pipe from Verdugo Canyon down Verdugo road and over toward Eagle Rock valley, evidently intending to supply the commodity to that section.

There are many points in regard to the question of water and water rights which are unsettled by the courts and as no two cases seem to be exactly alike, precedents do not count. The law as laid down by the California courts some years ago as to riparian ownership, makes quite clear the principle that water must not be diverted from the land to which it is naturally and originally appurtenant, but this does not make the law entirely clear in its general application, for there is much leeway given when it comes down to the point as to just what in a particular case constitutes the land to which water is now and has been appurtenant. In the early days of the mission fathers and later, when all irrigation was done by means of ditches and water was not deliverable under pressure, the acreage irrigible from any stream was easily ascertained and such acreage was considered as the land to which the stream was appurtenant. To a layman it appears that there is a beautiful chance for a law suit if any water company takes water from Verdugo canyon to deliver to any territory not naturally irrigible from that source.

GRAND JURY AFTER STENOGRAPHERS.

The grand jury has evidently done a good job in getting after the court stenographers. Possibly they have been acting within the letter of the law, but in any case the county has been robbed of thousands of dollars and it matters little whether the individual or the system is at fault; somebody somewhere is responsible for it. A recent case in Glendale illustrates the graft." A criminal case (where no crime was committed) came up before the city recorder. It dragged over three or four days, there being at least two postponements, when it finally came up it was disposed of in a day. A deputy district attorney came out from Los Angeles to represent the prosecution. Every time he came, he was accompanied by a stenographer, and every time the stenographer came, he put in a bill against the county for $10.00. Once the stenographer came without the district attorney, the latter had been "detained," but it cost the county ten dollars just the same and car fare in addition. Altogether the stenographer's fees in the case amounted to $62. Possibly much of the responsibility for this system lies with the district attorney; his office must have been cognizant of the abuse and the judges on the bench knew all about the practice, but in official circles the idea seems to prevail that the county being rich may as well pay. Meanwhile taxes are becoming constantly more burdensome and taxpayers are getting no more for their money than they did when they paid much less. The commendable action of the grand jury explains one of the leaks.

OPEN AIR SCHOOLS.

Since January 1, 1907, sixty-five open air schools for children afflicted with or predisposed to tuberculosis have been established in twenty-eight cities, according to an announcement made in a bulletin issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The first open air school in the United States was established on January 1, 1907, by the board of education of Providence, R. I., at the instance of Dr. Ellen A. Stone. The next school was established in May of the same year at Pittsburg, a third one at Boston in July, 1908, and the fourth at Bellevue Hospital in New York in December, 1908. During the year 1909 ten schools in five different cities were opened; in 1910, sixteen schools in twelve cities were opened; and eight schools in five cities have been opened to April 1, 1911, while definite provision has been made for twenty-seven more schools in six cities. Many cities are considering the question and will act during the coming year.

New York City now has in operation twelve open air schools and classes, and definite provision has been made for fourteen similar classes to be opened by next fall. Boston has five open air classes in its schools, and Chicago also has several.

According to reports received by the National Association, the result of the open air class work has been to restore most of the children to normal health and efficiency. One of these open air schools or classes should be established for each 25,000 population, especially in cities.

AN ASTRONOMICAL COLUMBUS.

A dispatch from San Francisco states that "Professor Thomas Jefferson See, in charge of the U. S. observatory at Mare Island, has established communication with the planet Venus." We are informed further that he received a message from his Venusian correspondent, the nature of which he is not yet ready to divulge. He says, however, that the inhabitants of that planet are beings of a high order of intelligence, and capable of reasoning! That beings of a high order of intelligence should be "capable of reasoning" seems to fix their status pretty well, but does not indicate that their place in the scale of existence is much higher than that of the creatures who inhabit that other planet, the Earth, for many of them have been known under stress of circumstance to give evidence of the possession of the reasoning faculty, although they do not exercise it on every-day occasions. The professor further states that he now feels quite certain that he has established his remarkable theory showing the evolution of the stellar system. He asserts that planets were not detached by rotation, as they could not have been "with the existing momenta of momentum."

We would rather accept the professor's dicta or dictum in regard to the momenta of momentum than swallow his yarn about the message from Venus. The correspondent who sends out this startling piece of astronomical intelligence devotes some words to telling of other achievements of Professor Thomas Jefferson of the See family. We are informed that the professor, while in Germany, some twenty years ago, "startled astronomers by his discovery of the so-called double stars."

That the professor saw stars double or triple, or by any other multiple of vision, is not remarkable. He would not have been true to the traditions of the numerous See family had he failed to so observe them. But, really, we cannot credit him with the discovery of the "double" stars. Who was the first astronmer to make the discovery that many of the stars are so close together in the line of vision as to appear as doubles, we are not aware, but Herschel "discovered" some twenty-four hundred of them.

Professor Thomas Jefferson See would belie his name if he was not seeing things, but that message from Venus ought to be presented to the world at once, unless it is of a strictly private nature, which is not likely to be the case unless the professor is Adonis in disguise.

WHAT WOULD HE DO?

The various religions of the world provide us with a large number of man-made gods. The very best and highest that the human mind can conceive is, after all, still, in our fancy, patterned after the human, and the process of clothing divinity with earthly attributes is an endless one. In this enlightened age our ideals of the Savior of mankind are every now and again shocked by the cheap attempts to imagine Him girt about by human limitations and stooping to do daily work in the human spirit with which we ourselves do it. Recently someone has ventured the assertion that if Jesus was on earth, particularly in California, he would commend our legislators for having passed the eight-hour law.

It is not recorded that Jesus went about the country giving advice, or even passing comment upon existing laws. His brief ministry was not wasted in treating the symptoms; He attacked the disease at its source; and the defects of human law are mere symptoms of a condition of the human mind. He called the Scribes and Pharisees hypocrites, but it is not recorded that He found any fault with or commended the law which they failed to apply to themselves. The Romans doubtless ruled Palestine with a strong hand when the Savior was on earth, but this great Reformer does not seem to have advised any change in laws or systems; He spoke directly to the hearts and minds of men; He did not deal with the instrument, but with the power that directed it. The Savior walked the earth as man, but "He spake as never man spoke, and the attempt to fancy His taking part in the making of our miserably inefficient human laws is repugnant to every idea of a Being exalted above men. No man-made law can work a spiritual reform in the characters of men, and there is nothing sacred or holy about any human law that ever was or will be made.

If the Savior should come to earth again, we doubt not that He would preach the self-same eternal truths that He uttered twenty centuries ago, and when the politicians sought to entangle Him or to get His endorsement of their fads and fancies, He would answer them in terms similar to His reply to the Pharisees, when they questioned Him as to the subject of divorce? "In heaven there is neither marrying nor giving in marriage"; and our enthusiastic reformer would be informed that there is no eight-hour day in the celestial city!

SAN DIEGO EXPOSITION.

The date for the ground-breaking ceremonies of the Panama California Exposition is July 19-22. Elaborate preparations are in progress for this event, which will occupy four days. The celebration will include historical features covering the period from the discovery of the Pacific ocean by Vasco Nunez de Balboa in 1513 to the founding of the California missions in 1769 by Father Junipero Serra of the Order of St. Francis. This history will be presented in gorgeous pageantry and floats illustrating the chief episodes of that history. Especially notable will be the procession of the twenty-one missions of California, each mission presenting its history in appropriately costumed characters, depicting the historical phases of its foundation, medieval, religious and allegorical.

CASA VERDUGO

Church Dedicated—Personal and Social Notes

One of the jolliest times enjoyed during the Easter holiday week by the girls of the younger set was the house party held at the home of Miss Alpha Clement in North Glendale, over the week end. The guests gathered Friday evening and from the moment of arrival the merriment began. Saturday was spent by a picnic at Griffith Park where the entertainment was very unique and very enjoyable if not purely original. Sunday was divided into a number of good times plentifully dispersed with eating. The guests all but one returned home late Sunday evening several pounds heavier than when they arrived.

Those invited were Miss Marie McDonald, Miss Ruth Brown, Miss Mary Brown, Miss Helen Jordan, Miss Berenice Williams, Miss Harriet Baird, Miss Anna Megilligan, Miss Helen Tupper, Miss Pearl Goode, Miss Emily Ellias, Miss Leeta McCoy and Miss Michelle Le Grande.

Miss May Sutton of Pasadena will spend the week end with Miss Mary Brown of Stocker street.

The Merrymakers club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Kilgore on Arden avenue where they were entertained by Miss Elizabeth Paul and Miss Hulda Erickson. Wednesday evening the same club enjoyed a very pleasant moonlight picnic at Verdugo Park.

The Pepper Tree Inn served chicken dinner to a large number of visitors last Sunday, among them being General Manager Platt of the Southern Pacific and his family.

Mr. Andy Robertson, deputy county clerk, has taken up his domicile at the Pepper Tree Inn.

J. J. Wilson has sold his home on Fairview, a six-room residence, and with his family will move to Oregon.

The need of a light at Dryden street on the Pacific Electric is emphasized by every moonless night. At this point the railroad is several feet above the street and it is a matter of wonderment that some one has not already been injured there, as it is a favorite stopping place with nearby residents. A petition was presented to the railroad people some time ago, but it seems to have had no effect. The light at Arden avenue is maintained by Mr. L. C. Brand.

The following letters are advertised at the Casa Verdugo postoffice: Mrs. Ed. Hohler, Jessie Dent, Mrs. M. Z. Valentine, Miss Pauline Prilie, Ella S. Williams, Lt. R. G. Sherrard, R. W. Eastman, J. P. Collins, J. A. Moll, D. A. Munger, J. W. Hawk.

DEDICATION OF M. E. CHURCH.

Last Sunday was a red letter day for the Casa Verdugo Methodists who in company with a large number of visitors gathered at the neat little chapel which has just been completed on Park avenue. The building was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the principal feature being a large cross of callas. The dedication program was a very interesting one. The music was unusually fine, Miss Lillian Ward presiding at the organ and some excellent vocal numbers being rendered by the quartette of the First M. E. Church, composed of Messrs. Lamb and Barager and Misses Hollingsworth and Putnam. Mr. Lamb sang "A Day of Peace' in his usual enjoyable style. Upon the platform with Rev. C. R. Norton, through whose efforts the church has been erected, were Revs. Mather, Blackburn, Morrison and Botkin, all of who participated in the exercises. The sermon by Dr. Mather was a powerful effort. He is an eloquent and logical speaker. After the sermon there was a statement made by Rev. Norton as to the expenses incurred in the erection of the building, showing an expenditure of something over $800. An appeal was made to the congregation to contribute a fund to cover this expense and as a starter Mrs. Marshall Barnett, the president of the Woman's Aid Society, pledged the sum of $500, and with this splendid encouragement the remainder of the debt was easily taken care of. The chapel is built with a view to enlargement whenever that may be required, which will no doubt be in the near future.

LOS ANGELES THEATRES

BURBANK.

"Arsene Lupin," the novel detective play at the Burbank, will be continued another week on account of its popularity as proved by big crowds throughout the week. This being the first time this widely known character of fiction ever has been introduced on the stage on the Coast, there was considerable curiosity as to what manner of hero had been made out of the adventurer, who had already won his way to public esteem through clever stories in the magazines. This curiosity soon developed into admiration, and the nimble aristocrat of crime is numbered among the Burbank successes.

Not the least important feature in the success of this play is the production which Manager Morosco brought from New York, having purchased from the Frohmans outright the original scenery, effects and properties. A more original piece of stage mechanism than the double-decked elevator has seldom been seen, and it works with a smoothness seldom duplicated in such elaborate apparatus. The rich tapestries, paintings and all details are in perfect harmony.

Sydney Ayres as the brilliant and resourceful "Duke of Charmerace," is one of the most attractive figures imaginable, his suavity and ease making a fine contrast with the nervous energy of Frank Camp as the equally brilliant detective, Guerchard. Howard Scott as the victim of the intrepid burglar, gives one of those intimate characterizations which have won his place in Los Angeles theatrical circles. Miss Ida Adair as Sonia, and all the other members of the Burbank company, are seen in strikingly original roles. There is nothing hackneyed about "Arsene Lupin," in situation or character delineation.

SETTING BACK THE FRENOH CLOCKS.

Greenwich time has now been adopted throughout France and Algeria. At midnight on Friday, March 9, all public clocks throughout the country were set back by nine minutes and twenty-one seconds, which represents the difference between the longitudes of London and Paris. Thus Greenwich mean time, which is itself a convention based on the supposed position at noon of an imaginary sun moving in the equator with uniform velocity, is now adopted for all practical purposes as the basis of what is known as "standard time" throughout the greater part of the civilized world.

This is, no doubt, due in the main to the unifying influence of science, which makes the whole world kin, and sooner or later compels it to adopt common standards of measurement for those things which all men must measure, and find it to their advantage to measure uniformly. But the observatory and meridian of Paris are not things easily dislodged from their established pride of place. They have a long and memorable history, which all Frenchmen justly prize, and it cannot have been without a sentimental pang—altogether legitimate and even laudable in itself—that France has allowed them to yield precedence to the observatory and meridian of another nation. Indeed, there have been times, not so very long ago, when any proposal to set French clocks by Greenwich time would have been scouted from one end of France to the other, and resented as an ignoble surrender to the pretensions of an arrogant and jealous rival. But those times have happily now passed away, let us hope forever. Frenchmen and Englishmen have latterly learned to know and understand each other better, and it is one of the happiest results of the entente cordiale that France and England are now ready to interchange with each other all these gifts and graces of civilization by which either can help the other, with no thought of national rivalry between them. In point of fact, the adoption in due course of Greenwich time by France became inevitable as soon as the leading nations of Europe and the West began to adopt standard time, which was first suggested in Canada, in 1878, by Sir Sandford Fleming, at that time engineer-in-chief of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The principle of standard time now adopted is that the hour of each fifteenth meridian of longitude, east or west of Greenwich, becomes subject to certain modifications adapted to local circumstances, such as the boundaries of states or provinces—the local mean time for the zone or belt extending seven and one-half degrees on each side of the meridian in question. Thus, in North America there are four zones of standard time, the Eastern, the Central, the Mountain and the Pacific, corresponding to the seventy-fifth, the ninetieth, the one hundred and fifth and the one hundred and twentieth meridians, respectively. In these zones the mean time is, respectively, five, six, seven and eight hours slow on Greenwich. By this means Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, New York, Boston and Washington, being all in the Eastern zone, are brought to a common mean time; Winnipeg, Detroit, Chicago and New Orleans are all an hour later, while San Francisco and British Columbia are two hours later than Chicago. In Western Europe only one standard time different from that of Greenwich is needed, and this is known as "Mid-European time," being the time of the fifteenth meridian of east longitude, or one hour fast on Greenwich. In Eastern Europe the standard time of the thirtieth meridian east of Greenwich, which is two hours fast on Greenwich, is used, except in Russia, which still largely uses local time, whether of St. Petersburg, Moscow or Warsaw. Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Switzerland and Italy use Mid-European time, while the Netherlands and Spain, being nearer the meridian of Greenwich, have adopted Greenwich time. France has now followed their example, and thus, with the exception of Ireland and of Portugal, which latter takes its time from Lisbon, the whole of Western Europe, and all Eastern Europe with the exception of Russia, have now adopted the principle of standard time reckoned from the meridian of Greenwich. Ireland, as we know, professes attachment to home rule, and already enjoys it in the matter of time. Might she not, however, for the common advantage, follow the example of France and put her chronological pride in her pocket? As a matter of sentiment, it is certainly a greater sacrifice for France to abandon the meridian of Paris than for Ireland to abandon that of Dublin. France, however, having changed her prime meridian more than once in the past—it has at various times been reckoned from St. Michael in the Azores, from Teneriffe and from Ferro, the westernmost of the Canary Islands—is, perhaps, all the more inclined once more to accommodate herself to the advance of science and the concord of the nations. Nevertheless, we do not underrate the sacrifice of national sentiment that she has made in abandoning her historic meridian, and we rejoice to think that in these days it is easier for her to do so in favor of Greenwich than it could have been in favor of any other meridian.

-will the flour You use stand this Water Test?

—here's a flour test that thousands of women will try this month.

—make dough of "NEWMARK'S BEST FLOUR"—weighing the flour first and measuring the amount of water used. Then take same weight of soft wheat flour (the kind you are now using) and try to make good, workable dough with the same amount of water.

—the result is a sticky, pasty mass, and if you want to make a workable dough YOU WILL HAVE TO USE MORE FLOUR!

—it proves that soft wheat flour is full of starch—contains low percentage of gluten—a flour absolutely unfit to use!

—"NEWMARK'S BEST FLOUR" is made from genuine Kansas hard wheat—contains very little starch—and is strong in gluten.

—and gluten is the life of the wheat—the nutritive element—makes bread and pastry light and digestible—gives bread and biscuits a rich, sweet, nutty flavor.

—Discard soft wheat flour NOW AND FOREVER!

Protect your stomach—temper—pocketbook.

—hard wheat flour costs a trifle more, but it goes much further. It is really the most economical flour you can use—your money back quick and without question if you're not satisfied.

The Man's Mistake.

Out of loyalty to his own sex the manager of the woman's suit department discharged his young woman stenographer and hired a man. The first batch of letters dictated to the man were written to about a hundred old customers, whom he invited to examine privately a lot of exclusive garments before they were placed on sale. The day after the letters were mailed the women flocked into the store, but the fire that burned in their eyes was the fire of the avenger rather than of the bargain hunter. One word which each woman had underlined in her letter explained their wrath. The garments, so the manager had meant to say, had been designed for women of stock figure, such as they possessed, but the male stenographer had drawn on the alphabet and had written it "stocky."

"No woman on earth would have been guilty of such a mistake," growled the manager.

The next week the girl stenographer had her job back.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Great Men Tall and Short.

A recent investigator has attempted to show that Lombroso and his followers were wrong in asserting that men of genius were of small stature. Of 230 individuals of eminence he found that figures were obtainable for 103; of these sixteen were of middle height, fifty-eight above and twenty-nine below.

Americans particularly combined greatness with inches. Jefferson and Jackson were more than six feet tall. Sumner was six feet four inches, and Washington, Lincoln and Beecher were more than six feet. Among famous foreigners Tolstoy was a large man, and so were Thackeray, Bismarck and Darwin.

On the contrary, many of the world's greatest geniuses were undersized and even deformed. Napoleon, Poe, Pope, Alexander the Great, Nelson, Blake and Caesar were small men.

After all is said, genius is no respecter of rules.—New York American.

Doing Chores.

There is no time in the year when there is cessation from toil on a farm. It is different in winter; that is all. The days are shorter, the work rougher. Of course much depends upon the character of the farm. Considerable leisure is possible where few cattle are kept and general trucking done. But always there are the "chores." A remarkably elastic expression that—"doing chores." It may mean much or little. Some dairy farmers, for instance, whose serious business in life is milking cows, may potter around the farm after the morning's milking and, taking the morning's milk to the creamery or railroad station, eat their noon dinners, mend some fence, look over the harness or haul out manure, potter around some more and then say, "Guess it's about time to do the chores," meaning to milk two dozen cows or so—the real hard work of the day.—Philadelphia Press.

Believed Them True Stories.

When Dante published his "Inferno" the simplicity of the age accepted it as a true narrative of his descent into hell.

When the "Utopia" of Sir Thomas Moore was first published it occasioned a pleasant mistake. This political romance represents a perfect but visionary republic in an island supposed to have been newly discovered in America. "As this was the age of discovery," says Granger, "the learned Budaeus and others took it for a genuine history and considered it as highly expedient that missionaries should be sent thither in order to convert so wise a nation to Christianity."

It was a long while after publication that many readers were convinced that Gulliver's travels were fictitious.

Blackbird Days.

Jan. 30 and 31 and Feb. 1 are famous at Constantinople, Brescia and along the Danube and the Rhine as the "blackbird days." A curious legend says that originally all species of grackles (blackbirds) were white and that they became black because during one year in the middle ages the three days mentioned above were so cold that all the birds in Europe took refuge in the chimneys. At Brescia the three days are celebrated with a feast called "I giorni della merla," or "the feast of the transformation of the bird."

Possibly.

Mr. Briggs—Here's an article, my dear, a very interesting article, in which a prominent doctor says that a certain cure for nervousness in women is silence—complete silence. Mrs. Briggs (promptly)—I'll bet anything some fool of a man doctor wrote that! —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Easily Attained.

"I am determined to live in luxurious surroundings and eat and drink the best the land affords," said the frankly selfish man.

"That ought to be easily arranged," replied Miss Cayenne. "All you have to do is to get a situation as a butler." —Washington Star.

Wishing Them a Safe Voyage.

"Mabel and George, after much quarreling over the arrangements for their honeymoon, have decided to take the trip in an airship."

"Well, I trust that when they get above the clouds they won't have a falling out!"—Widow.

Between Octogenarians.

"I understand they sentenced him to life imprisonment?"

"Well, no; it wasn't as bad as that. He got only ninety-nine years!"—Puck.

His Frankness Won.

The late Senator Dolliver said that in politics it paid to be frank and honest with the people.

"My predecessor in the senate," he said, "was John H. Gear. On one occasion the prohibition spirit was running high, and a public meeting was held, with a well known Quaker as chairman. Gear was invited to the meeting. He accepted the invitation. The old Quaker called him to the platform and said:

"'We learn that thou dost not belong to any temperance society and also that thou dost drink liquor at thy discretion. Is this true?'

"'Every word of it is true,' replied Gear, 'but did you ever hear of my doing anything dishonorable?'

"'Nay, Mr. Gear,' replied the old Quaker chairman—'nay, we have never heard anything else to thy discredit. Thy frankness is more to be commended than thy habits. But thou hast not lied to us, and we will support thee.'

"And they did," said Senator Dolliver, "and elected him too."—Washington Star.

Her Bridge Prize.

A decided coldness between two women who had been friends for many years is the result of a mistake made by the maid of one of them who had had a four table bridge party one afternoon recently. In keeping with the custom, she had provided a prize for each table, to be brought to the card room just before tea was served and placed on the tables which bore the corresponding numbers. It was a "lovely party" in every respect, with never a hitch until the woman at No. 3 opened the parcel which was supposed to contain her trophy of victory over her three competitors, but which really contained a piece of perfumed soap. Unfortunately, the hostess was not in the group when the package was opened, and much had been said before she discovered that the wrong bundle had been brought downstairs.—New York Tribune.

The Seal's Marvelous Instinct.

The instinct of the seal is marvelous. It will leave its young on the ice in the morning and, going down through a hole, remain away all day swimming in search of food. Returning in the evening, it will locate its offspring in the same "patch" among hundreds of thousands of other baby seals notwithstanding that the ice may have wheeled or drifted fifty or sixty miles during the day from wind and tide and notwithstanding that the patch may extend thirty or forty miles from one end to the other. Whether this instinct is of the class that enables the bird without any mark or chart in a forest with millions of trees alike to find its way back with ease and precision to its nest I do not know, but it is one of those wonders in nature before which human knowledge is brought to a full stop.—Sir Edward Morris in Wide World Magazine.

The Jekyll and Hyde Idea.

"I was in Stevenson's company," says Charles Brookfield in "Random Reminiscences," "at the moment that he conceived the germ of the idea of 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.' He was inveighing against a man with whom he had done business and with whom he was dissatisfied. The man's name was Samuel Creggan, or something like it. 'He's a man who trades on the Samuel,' Stevenson declared. 'He receives you with Samuel's smile on his face, with the gesture of Samuel he invites you into a chair, with Samuel's eyes cast down in self depreciation he tells you how well satisfied his clients have always been with his dealings, but every now and again you catch a glimpse of the Creggan peeping out like a white ferret. Creggan's the real man; Samuel's only superficial.'"

The Louvre.

The Louvre dates away back to the reign of Dagobert in 628. In 1204 it was a prison and in 1364 was made into a library. The new building was begun by Francis I. in 1528 and enlarged and adorned by successive kings, principally by Louis XIV. But it was Napoleon I. who gave the Louvre its real glory. Turning it into a museum, Napoleon deposited in it the finest collection of paintings, statues and art treasures known in the world. The magnificent buildings of the new Louvre were begun by Napoleon I. and completed by Napoleon III. about 1857.

Not an Inviting Ideal.

"My son," said Harker as he pointed to the ivy in front of the cottage, "always be like the vine—climb."

The little boy was thoughtful.

"I don't think I'd like to be like that vine," he responded seriously.

"And why not, Tommy?"

"'Cause if I was I'd be a porch climber."—Chicago News.

SNOWFALL IN THE MOUNTAINS.

(By Prof. Alexander G. McAdie, U. S. Weather Bureau.)

"Snow fell during the first decade of March, and by the 11th of the month the snow cover was both deeper and more extended than has been known for many years. The heavy snowfall of January, the moderate fall of February and the heavy fall of the first ten days in March, notwithstanding three periods of rapid melting, resulted in a greater depth of snow on the ground at the middle of the month than we have any previous record of. A period of prolonged fair weather, with no reinforcement of the snow, permitted a steady decrease, and at the end of the month the depth, while great, did not in general exceed that of the season of 1904, and was less than during 1906, 1907 and 1909. It was, however, far greater than the depths recorded at the end of March in 1905, 1908 and 1910.

"While it is too early to forecast the supply of water during the coming summer, there is every likelihood that, even should there be no snowfall during April and May, a condition which is extremely improbable, there will still be an ample supply of water and a sufficient quantity of snow at the higher elevations to remain late in the summer. So far as travel in the mountains is concerned, the season will probably be a late one. For irrigation, mining and other purposes, present conditions indicate a bountiful supply of water during the spring and summer."

Not the Answer He Expected.

Whitefield, whose dramatic appeals to his listeners were always a noteworthy part of his sermons, once preached to a body of seamen in New York. In the course of his sermon he introduced the following words:

"Well, my boys, we have a clear sky and are making fine headway over a smooth sea before a light breeze, and we shall soon lose sight of land. But what means this sudden lowering of the heavens and that dark cloud rising from the western horizon? Hark! Don't you hear the distant thunder? Don't you see those flashings of lightning? There is a storm gathering. Every man to his duty! How the waves rise and dash against the ship! The air is dark. The tempest rages! Our masts are gone! The ship is on her beam ends! What next?"

The hands of every sailor were gripping the pews in front of them, and a wild excitement was in their eyes. And when the preacher reached the climax of his dramatic speech they sprang to their feet in a body and shouted, "Take the longboat!"—New York Sun.

"IF."

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about don't deal in lies;
Or being hated don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch and toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the will which says to them, "Hold on;"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings—nor lose the common touch;
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you;
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the earth and everything that's in it
And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son.

—Rudyard Kipling, in the American Magazine.

DR. HENRY TAKES THE CHAIR.

Not in the new University of Southern California which is to be, nor in any other institution of learning, however well he may be fitted for it—but just a little out of the ordinary, high class, comfortable rocking chair, warranted for either single or double—well, just warranted, you know. It was conveyed to him Thursday evening of last week by a company of about twenty friends, headed by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Usilton, who called upon Rev. Henry and his wife about eight o'clock and gave them a genuine surprise. When the chair and the visitors were all within the walls of the attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry, Mr. O. A. Lane, in a very felicitous speech, presented the chair, Mr. Henry responding in his usual happy manner, taking occasion to relate, as quite apropos, an anecdote or two about some other "surprise" parties in which he had figured. The callers spent a pleasant hour with host and hostess. The affair was a happy one for all concerned. The donors of the gift were mainly members of the Improvement Association, to whom Mr. Henry has endeared himself by his readiness at all times to assist in every good work. Mr. F. H. Muehlman was the only unmarried person present, a distinction which he made the most of.

GEORGE F. DEWING.

The funeral of the late George F. Dewing occurred Saturday last when, after services at his home, Third and Verdugo Road, interment was made at Forest Lawn cemetery. A large number of old friends and neighbors followed the body to its resting place. Mr. Dewing suffered a great deal in his last illness, although from the time he received the injury by which his shoulder was broken, a month ago, he spent much of the time in a delerious condition. Only occasionally did he have lucid intervals when he would recognize his wife, who was tireless in her devotion to the sufferer.

George F. Dewing was born at Wellesley, Mass., 87 years ago next August. When 26 years of age he moved to the vicinity of Natick, where he remained until he came to California. He was the owner of the largest stock farm in that part of the State, comprising 500 acres, and carried on a large business as a dealer in live stock. He prospered and for two years before coming to the Pacific Coast he traveled over the United States, vising places of interest.

Coming to California in the winter of 1883, he became interested with Mr. Rowell in the hotel business and together they built the Natick House. He retained an interest in that only a short time, selling out to Rowell and coming to Glendale, where he bought the property on which he has lived for the last twenty-five years. George F. Dewing was an honest man, a public-spirited citizen and a good neighbor. Many a man has gone to him in financial stress and came away relieved of his troubles by the generosity of the man to whom he appealed.

The community was the better for his living in it, and his loss is keenly felt by the faithful wife who survives him and by many friends to whom he was kind.

TROPICO MAN WINS SUCCESS.

Buys Big Tract of Land in San Joaquin Valley and Develops Earthly Paradise.

L. C. Rice, a nurseryman of many years experience, came to Lindsay March 8, 1910, and purchased 382 acres of land two miles southwest of town. He immediately commenced planting his nursery bed and today he estimates that in his orange seed bed he has 400,000 plants. He also has 80,000 trees set and budded, which will be ready for market next spring.

In addition to this, Mr. Rice has 70,000 olive plants and 30,000 roses in his nursery. Last fall Rice set eighty acres of his land to navels and it is his intention to plant the remaining 302 acres to navels and valencias within the next year. This will give him 382 acres in one piece, all set to oranges and will be the largest individual orange ranch in the state of California. The whole place will be bordered with fan and date palms set alternately. Beautiful driveways lined with roses will be laid out and when the plans Rice has made are completed, this will not only be the largest, but one of the most beautiful places in Tulare county.

WEST GLENDALE

Mr. P. A. Penhollow has returned from a trip in the northern part of the state.

Mr. Collins of Long Beach was the guest of his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. W. Everett on Tuesday.

Mrs. Reed of Los Angeles is the guest of her son, Mr. Albert Reed of West Fourth street.

Mrs. C. B. Clay, 1517 Ivy street, is confined to her bed suffering from an attack of appendicitis.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Van Noy of 15 Ivy street, Thursday morning, April 13th, a ten-pound girl.

On or near May 5th there will be an entertainment at the High school auditorium and we hope to see you all there.

Mr. Frank Patch, one of the most popular employes of the Glendale Steam Laundry, is again able to be about and expects to resume his duties in a short time.

On Friday, April 14th, at 5 p. m., death relieved the sufferings of little Albertina Haeg, who has been ill for such a long period, and the funeral was held Monday at 9 a. m.

Mrs. A. B. Garcelon was in Glendale on Tuesday, calling on her numerous friends, lunching with her old-time friend, Mrs. J. J. Schremp. It has been some three years since Mrs. Garcelon's departure from Glendale.

And the voice of the steam roller is heard on the land. In this particular instance it is both seen and heard on Sixth street, where it is engaged in doing excellent work on this thoroughfare in connection with the good roads.

Mrs. Dora Gibson has so far recovered as to be able to attend to her duties once more. Mrs. Gibson is planning some excellent music both for the High school and West Glendale school in connection with their commencement exercises and the entertainment as well, and we sincerely hope she will be able to personally attend to the same.

West Glendale school opened its doors Monday morning to four new pupils, and still when the building was erected many remarks were made in connection with the size of the building for the number of scholars, many thinking the building of eight rooms far too large for the district. If things keep on the way they have during the past year, ti is feared the district will be too large for the building.

Beautiful and appropriate exercises were held on Easter morning at the West Glendale M. E. church. Sunday school was held as usual, to the largest number of scholars ever in attendance, 120 being there on this morning, 99 being regular scholars and the remainder adults. The children rendered a very interesting program in a most excellent manner, the choir also gave a beautiful selection and the superintendent, Mrs. Henderson, gave a very interesting address. Rev. Morrison made a few remarks, after which the audience was dismissed by the Rev. Mr. Elliott. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with calla lilies, marguerites and ferns.

SURPRISE PARTY.

On Thursday evening, April 13th, a merry crowd gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Collins and enjoyed themselves most heartily throughout the evening. The event was in the nature of a surprise tendered Miss Dorothy Corwin. Numerous games were indulged in during the evening's entertainment, but the ones causing the greatest amusement were the bean-guessing contest of which Miss Rosalie England secured the first prize and Miss Dorothy Corwin second prize; and the easter egg hunt, in which Miss Maud Connor secured first prize and Miss Helen McMullen second prize. Ice cream and cake were served. Those present were: Dorothy Corwin, Helen McMullen, Agnes Stief, Rosalie England, Olive Pitman, Esther Collins, Florence Brotherton, Correta Conners, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. WITH AUTHORS AND BOOKS.

John L. Stoddard, author of "The Stoddard Lectures," who now lives in a beautiful villa on Lake Como, Italy, has turned his attention from foreign travels to literature, having just brought out a series of twelve volumns known as "The Stoddard Library," which guarantees to its readers "a thousand hours of entertainment with the world's great writers." In other words, he has compiled an anthology, a big bouquet of the flowers of literature, from Homer to Ibsen, including representative stories, poems, essays, plays, extracts from great novels, histories, etc.

The sample of each author's work fills from one to sixty pages and is preceded by a brief but excellent biographical sketch. The whole work is arranged alphabetically, beginning with Addison and Aeschylus and ending with Wordsworth and Zola, and at the end of the twelfth volumn is a well arranged index, making the contents of all easily accessible. Each volumn is embellished with eight unusually fine color pictures—painted by A. W. Buehler—of the homes of authors or scenes connected with their writings.

Mr. Stoddard's work is especially commendable for the extent to which it manages to cover the copyrighted present-day writers as well as the older classics. Stevenson, Hardy, Meredith, Bjornson, Ibsen, Hall Caine, Blackmore's "Lorna Doone," Darwin's "Descent of Man," Green's "Short History of the English People"—these are represented as well as Byron and Tennyson, Dickens and Thackeray. Care evidently has been taken to include nothing that cannot safely be put into the hands of young folk. Thus, the two or three stories from Boccacio's "Decameron" are unexceptionable.

The work is really what it purports to be—a compact family library of select bits of the best literature of all lands and times. The print is large and clear, the paper good, the binding plain and substantial, and the pictures choice in coloring and composition. For the person who has few books and is perhaps far from a public library this set is invaluable.
